UM'S MARCHING BAND PLAYS ON

MISSOULA --

Although faced with extinction last year, University of Montana's Marching Band has received funds for the coming marching season, according to music Professor Tom Cook, director of bands at UM.

While funds didn't allow for bringing band members to campus early enough this fall to prepare for the first two home games, Cook said, the band will play for the Boise State game on Oct. 17 and for three games after that: Homecoming vs. Weber State on Oct. 24, the Grizzly-Bobcat game in Bozeman on Oct. 31 and the Idaho State game in Missoula on Nov. 7.

Students interested in playing with the band may audition Sept. 21-25 in Music Building, Room 1. Marching Band gives one graded credit, but students may take up to three more credits on a pass/not pass basis. For more information, call 243-2959.
